CUTE LITTLE KILLERS – THE PREDATORS WITH POUCHES

50' (ENG, GER)

Meet maniacs, wind-up killers, and sweet-faced assassins in this entertaining introduction to some of the world's least-known marsupials.

It was a dreadful case of mistaken identity. European explorers confused them for ravenous cats, rats, wolves and weasels. But they were something completely unknown ... a curious band of marsupials with a taste for blood, bone and meat.

Scores of different little predators with pouches live all across Australia. The lives of many are at risk. Introducing three of the strangest; the numbat, the northern quoll, the dibbler; and the strangers who want to keep them safe.
